Reproduction Terms and Conditions

We are committed to making our holdings as widely available as possible, without unnecessary restrictions on their use. In some cases donation agreements place access and use conditions on materials donated to the Society that may limit our ability to provide reproductions of materials.

The Society endeavours to comply with laws affecting reproduction of materials in our holdings, including provisions of the Copyright Act:

There are no restrictions on the use or reproduction of material in the public domain (prior to January 1, 1949). For materials whose copyrights are owned by the Pender Harbour Living Heritage Society, we grant a non-exclusive licence to use the reproductions without permissions.

In keeping with the Fair Dealing provisions of the Copyright Act, single copies of the Society's holdings may be provided for the purposes of research, private study, education, parody, or satire. Multiple copies or copies to be used for other purposes may also be provided, subject to the user confirming in writing that permission has been obtained from the copyright owners for the intended use.

The Society uses reasonable efforts to ascertain third-party owners of materials, but we cannot provide any warranties or representations, and disclaim all liability regarding the materials' copyright ownership or status.

You are responsible for determining whether your use constitutes a copyright infringement and securing permission from the copyright holder if necessary.
